The defendants, Sacco and Vanzetti, who were indicted, tried and convicted for the murder in the 1921-22 Bremer kidnapping, alleged exceptions to rulings at the trial, as well as to the denial of numerous motions for new trials on various grounds, and to rulings of law thereon, and which were overruled, and a rescript was sent accordingly on May 19, 1926.

Commonwealth v. Sacco, 253 Mass. 359. The defendants, on May 25, 1926, filed a motion in the trial court for a new trial on the grounds of newly discovered evidence, which was denied subject to the exceptions of the defendant duly entered and argued in the court.

of error by which the defense had hoped to get a complete review of the world-famous case—facts as well as law.

The court also upheld the refusal of Judge Webster Thayer of the Superior Court to revoke the death sentence and grant a new trial.

Moreover, the full bench ruled against a last-minute petition brought before it by Attorney Hill, in which, entirely aside from his two appeal moves, the leader of the defense forces sought a writ of error direct from the full court.

The court stated in its findings that Judge Thayer was right in refusing to entertain the new trial motion brought before him on August 1, because, sentence having been pronounced, neither he nor any other Superior Court justice had jurisdiction to consider such a motion.

It was finished late yesterday afternoon, but kept locked in a safe at the Suffolk County Courthouse over night, while the four petitioners quietly left Boston and sought refuge at vacation places in New England.

Court Ruling on Sacco Case

"On April 5, 1927, these exceptions were overruled."
"Commonwealth vs. Sacco, Mass. Adv. Sh. 187, 431. The argument for the defendants was full and exhaustive, covering every error claimed to have been committed either at the trial or in any subsequent proceeding, and it was decided as a matter of law there was evidence which would warrant the jury in finding the defendants guilty."

"On April 5, 1927, sentence of death was imposed in accordance with G. L. c. 263, s. 2. The defendants were delivered to the sheriff in execution of their sentence and an application for executive clemency was made under the provisions of chapter 2, section 1, article 3, constitution of the Commonwealth. The application having been denied, the defendants, on August 1, 1927, filed a motion for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence and for revocation of sentence."

"At the hearing of the motion the trial judge refused not only to rule as requested by the defendants, but denied the motion, and the defendants excepted, raising the questions presented by the record in the first of the cases at bar."

"It is not contended by the petitioners that the single justice abused his powers or that his action was arbitrary and unjustifiable."

"The court ruled that there was nothing wrong about Judge Thayer's refusal to retire from the case and let some other justice consider the last new trial motion. Defense counsel had requested this retirement because the new trial motion was based squarely upon the ground of newly discovered evidence against Sacco and Vanzetti."

"The high court stated: 'The judicial conduct of the trial judge in hearing and deciding the motion based on his own alleged bias or prejudice, although urged in argument by counsel for the defendants, need not be discussed because, as we have just said, neither the judge nor any of his associates had jurisdiction to entertain the motion.'"

1, and St. 1926, c. 329, s. 1, f, that in capital cases a writ of error shall not issue unless allowed by a justice of this court after notice given to the Attorney-General for other attorneys for the Commonwealth.

"The wording of the statute is clear and must be construed as meaning that the issuance of a writ of error in a capital case rests in the sound judicial discretion of the single justice to whom the application is presented."

"It was to be decided whether the plain intention of the Legislature to discourage and prevent unnecessary delay would be defeated. This appears in Note 15 of the draft revision of Chapter 112 on the proposed Revised Statutes, on Page 215 in the report of the commission to revise the General Statutes of the Commonwealth in 1914.

In exceptions, by motion for a new trial, before sentence has been passed, and by petition for a discretionary writ of error either before or after sentence."

"The second case is a petition for a writ of error filed in this court August 6, 1927.

"It was heard and denied, subject to the petitioners' exception, by a single justice on the petition which contained the following assignment of error:

"It appears from the affidavit filed and made a part of the record of said cases in the Superior Court that the Honorable Webster Thayer, the justice of said Court who presided over the trial of said cases and who subsequently passed upon various motions with respect thereto, was so prejudiced against your petitioners and their counsel from the time of the beginning of said trial and throughout the hearings and rulings upon said motions that your petitioners have not had such a trial as that to which they are entitled under the constitution of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and that they have not had such a trial as constituted due process of law within the meaning of the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution, nor a trial by a judge as free, impartial and independent as the law of humanity will admit as required by article XXIX of the Declaration of the Rights of the Inhabitants of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

KEEP UP SACCO FIGHT, SAYS COUNSEL

This is not the end. In the days remaining we will fight hard with whatever means are within our power to liberate Sacco and Vanzetti.

This was the statement of Michael Angelo Musmanno of the Sacco-Vanzetti defense counsel, as he was in the corridors of the Suffolk County court house, today, of the docket decision of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts.

World Hears News
The clerk turned and entered the chamber used by Supreme Court justices when sitting as single justices. There, amid furniture covered with Sumner linen and in an atmosphere of gloom because the lights were not turned on, the newsgummers waited, while in the corridor outside of locked doors two guards stood watch.

Standing just inside the door by which he entered, at the front of the chamber, Chief Justice Hill made the decision to the world by repeating the words: "The exceptions are overruled."

There was a rush of reporters to the press room, where the words were flashed over telephone wires. Meanwhile, Grubbi had gone to his office with the full text of the decision, and had put typists to work making copies. There reporters crowded him, and made their own copies of the document, which was the death sentence.

Attorney Hill and his associates in the defense service in the typists were at work and were given copies of the decision.

Trustees of the Boston $25,000 transatlantic prize fund redoubled their efforts to complete the purse today following notice from Paris that Leon Givon, pilot of the giant steel Goliath plane, "Bluebird" had formally entered his name with the Aero Club of France as contestant for the prize.

In order to avoid any misunderstanding, the Boston Chapter of the National Aeronautic Association upon receipt of the Aero Club's cable immediately telegraphed back that the fund was still incomplete.

Despite this, however, there is strong possibility that Boston will see the Farman "Bluebird" in the event that Pilot Given conquers the difficulties of the westward Atlantic crossing.

AFTER HUB'S AIR PRIZE

Chicago, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Loveless, who is said to have a labor list is more than a play to do with the Chicago Police Department. Ladyard Smith, young Milwaukee architect; to him it is a bit of personal experience.

Smith, a Harvard graduate and son of a socially prominent Milwaukee family, obtained at Wauegan, Ill., a license to marry Miss Alicia Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Medill Patterson. On the same day that he took out the license announcement was made of Miss Patterson's engagement to James A. Smith, president of the Marshall Field & Co.

For several hours Chicago society circles buzzed with rumors and speculations as to the nature of the license obtained at Wauegan, a place where hurry-up marriages are

Smith himself finally cleared the matter up. He explained that, including a hope, he obtained the license without Miss Patterson's knowledge. He was, however, he said, at the expense of the clerk at Waikanae.

"Miss Patterson certainly did not accompany me to Waikanae," he said, "and she did not know of my going there. I am sure that there is any blame to be attached to the unfortunate situation, it certainly belongs to me."

Miss Patterson, whose father is publisher of Liberty Magazine, made no comment. Her mother, however, said that her daughter's conduct was without foundation.

The acquaintance between Smith and Miss Patterson was made in London, when she visited Milwaukee friends.

Robert Smith, a brother of Lady's, said he had inquired of the clerk at Waikanae about the license and that the clerk had told him to apply to Miss Patterson.

Advised to tear it up.

DOOMED TRIO ARE BACK IN DEATH CELLS

The short procession which made its way from the death house to the Cherry Hill section of State Prison eight days ago, when a respite had snatched Sacco, Vanzetti and Medford from the grip of death, returned to its steps today.

The condemned three were back in their death cells three hours after the adverse decision of the Supreme Court was made known, the warden waiting until the noon hour when all other inmates would be out of the way.

The transfer was being made, an additional police detail arrived outside the wall of the Charlestown institution. Northford avenue, which skirts the death house wall, was again closed to all traffic, from Chapman street to Dunstable street.

The same police precautions which were in effect last week were once more inaugurated.

SACCO CALM AT NEWS.
The condemned men Sacco and Vanzetti, were still in their Cherry Hill cells and waiting dinner when Attorney M. A. Musmanno arrived to break the news to them that Sacco being in New York to meet Vanzetti's sister, who comes from Italy.

Musmanno first went to meet the usual arrangement of meeting the prisoners in the latter shop having been changed by Warden Medford.

"You are a strong man, Sacco," said the lawyer, leaning against the bars.

Sacco looked up and smiled grimly. He nodded his head, but did not speak, struggling silently to know what the lawyer meant.

Both Sacco and Vanzetti knew that the decision of the Supreme Court was to be handed down early and they waited with eagerness, though with scanty hope, for the news.

"The Supreme Court has decided against us, Nick," went on Musmanno.

Sacco leaned back on the cot on which he was sitting and with his back resting against the wall of the cell replied, "Well, we expected it. It wasn't a question of our guilt or innocence. They just say we are bad men, rats, that's all."

He was calm, but the storm which broke when Vanzetti was told the news echoed in his cell and stripped him of much of his composure.

VANZETTI SAVES IN CELL.
"Vanzetti threw up his hands and shrieked," said Musmanno, telling how he broke the news to Sacco's sister.

Emma Goldman, in Sacco Plea, Raps Ruling Class

Toronto, Ont. Aug. 19 (A.P.)—After a speech by Miss Emma Goldman, a mass meeting in the Labor Temple passed a resolution of protest at the failure to grant Sacco and Vanzetti a new trial.

Miss Goldman declared the truth of the case was Sacco and Vanzetti, "because of their devotion to their class are thought to threaten the ruling class more than the Jeffersons and Patricks threaten over threatened the English crown."

Emma, "I know it, I know it," he screamed. "Let the million men, get the million men."

"He stood up and down in his cell, stamping his feet, and then he turned quickly and shouted, 'We're making all this noise in here. Noise, noise, noise!'"

"While Vanzetti went on raving wildly, I went over and talked with Sacco again and he was excited as a result of Vanzetti's shouting. It was very difficult to calm him, however."

"Sacco then asked me to bring his son, Dante, who he calls his 'little giant,' to see him again. He talked on and about his boy and asked me to come back here to get a letter for his son which he was writing."

Musmanno declared that Warden Medford told him Vanzetti had created a disturbance in his cell yesterday, alarming other inmates by shouting.

When Musmanno left the cells of the condemned men, a guard stopped up and quietly told them they were going back to the death house and in a few minutes they were on their way with Medford waiting just ahead of them and two guards following.

Musmanno Vanzetti has been distributing other prisoners by his outcries day and night. Warden Medford refused a plea of Attorney Musmanno to postpone the removal to the death house until it was known whether or not Chief Justice Hall would grant a stay of sentence.

"I told Mr. Musmanno that I couldn't wait because Vanzetti was creating a disturbance in the Cherry Hill section, which three that were in order to quiet the rest of the prisoners there," said the warden.

"My action is no indication of my opinion as to his mental condition."

SISTER HOPES VANZETTI GOES 'BACK TO FAITH'

hills in and terribly broken over Bartholomew's fall—said to me when I came away, 'Lidia, it is useless. Stay here, child. I fear the darkness.'

Faith in Prayers
"My brother and sister were helpless, too, but I felt differently. I moved and had faith in my prayers that God would spare him at least until I arrived."

"When I had those delays in France over my passport I began to give up hope, but it returned again and carried me on until I was here at last in America. Why was my father so skeptical? I don't know unless it was that he had been in this country before his marriage. He was in California for two years."

"My brother Bartholomew had telegraphed me to hurry to his aid and father and Vincenzo, my sister, were in Italy, and Mother, my mother, who is twenty-two."

Miss Vanzetti bore striking resemblance to her condemned brother, who is three years her senior. She is dark, with large, expressive black eyes. She is slender and of medium height. She looked like a retiring young American woman in her dress.

She wore a blue figured dress tinged with red, a long brown coat, a small light felt hat, tan stockings, light tan pumps. Her sister was modestly dressed, in a long, light-colored dress, with a white collar and cuffs.

Charles T. Daly of Medford, who was returning with his wife, and Miss Vanzetti was a pathetic figure throughout the voyage. He said everybody connected with the young woman, who kept mostly by herself.

"Don't your father or any of your family believe in anarchy?" a reporter asked.

"No," replied Miss Vanzetti. "We are devout Catholics. If my father and brother believe in anarchy, I don't believe in it."

"When did your brother Bartholomew become an anarchist?"

"We don't know. Sometime after he came to this country."

While in Paris I read of the refusal of the governor to intervene and I began to give up hope. This my courage returned when I learned

Guard is Replaced Over Pittsburgh Buildings

Pittsburgh, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Police guards around official buildings in Pittsburgh were ordered removed today by United States District Attorney John D. Meyer. His action was taken after the Massachusetts supreme court refused to intervene in the case of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti under sentence to be executed August 22.

Guards stood about the buildings earlier in the month, after several bombings in other cities, were withdrawn when the two radicals were given a reprieve.

GERMAN UNION WANTS VERDICT QUASHED

Berlin, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Vowwarte today printed a protest forwarded to the United States Embassy by the German Federation of Trade Unions which demanded that the verdict in the Sacco-Vanzetti case be quashed. It stated that the German Federation of Trade Unions would not recognize the verdict.

After reading the document, he said as he waved away would-be newspaper interviewers.

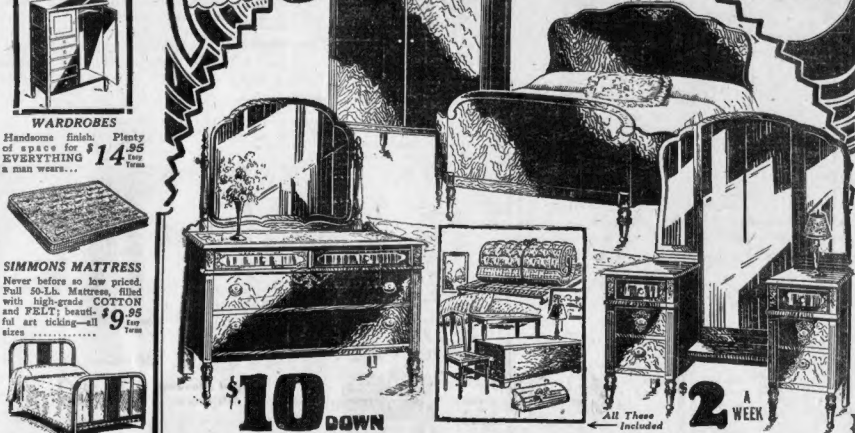

THAYER SMILES AS HE READS SACCO DECISION

Pittsburgh, Aug. 19 (U.S.A.)—Judge Webster Thayer, storm center of the Sacco-Vanzetti case, sitting here today in the so-called "cattle fraud cases," read the Supreme Court decision upholding his latest Sacco decision. HUGE DYNAMITE CACHE TAKEN BY PATROL explosive and moved it to the explosive magazine at Framingham.

Early today five inspectors George O. Mansfield of the State police turned to State police barracks at Framingham, where he got a detail of troops, and without telling anyone of the destination of the party set out for the old barn.

The structure, ramshackle and in a state of decay, was searched thoroughly. Concealed in one corner was the dynamite. The cases were carefully opened and checked. There were 220 sticks of the explosive in the cache.

According to Inspector Mansfield, the cache was unguarded, and any one could have helped himself to the explosive. Immediately, half a dozen State detectives began checking up on the dynamite, to learn whether the cache store had been tampered with since it was placed in the barn.

State troops guarded the dynamite until trucks arrived when it was taken to Framingham and placed in the magazine.

Plot to Blow Up Big Railway Bridge Foiled

Framingham, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—An attempt to blow up a bridge on the Pennsylvania railroad was made today, railroad officials reported. The plot, containing three quarters of nitroglycerine, had been found under a crate at Mayview, a suburb.

The discovery was made after a routine explosion had damaged a trolley car passing over the bridge at the time.

The explosion damaged the bridge in some extent and broke windows in the Mayview power house nearby.

LINDY WANTS ONLY TO BUM 'ROUND IN OLD SUIT INCOG

Madison, Wis., Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, at the conclusion of his nationwide tour, wants to return to Madison "Hogwarts" and just "bum around a while."

The youthful transatlantic flyer, conversing with Prof. F. H. Boyd of the University of Wisconsin at Grand Rapids, Mich., recently revealed his desire.

"The day that means most to me," now, Colonel Lindbergh said, "is the day my contract for the tour expires and I can get away from the routine of speeches and banquets."

"Then I'm coming to Madison, Incognito, visit all my old friends, just slip into an old suit and stand at ease."

Colonel Lindbergh spent nearly two years in Madison as a student.

ORDERS QUARRY TO CUT BLAST

The Lynn Sand & Stone Company was today directed by State Fire Marshal George C. Neal to stop smaller charges in quarry blasting operations in Swampscott, where rubble is contained of damage to property.

The decision of the marshal came after months of investigation and several hearings in Swampscott Town Hall, and after the New England Road Builders' Association had pointed out how difficult the problem is that faces contractors in getting the right stone for road construction.

Statements by the petitioners to the effect that dwelling houses in the vicinity of the quarry were shaken by excessive amounts of dynamite used in the charges, the marshal declared, were found by him to be true in the main.

LINGERIE WORTH $800 STOLEN IN BACK BAY SHOP

Edith Goldberg, proprietor of a women's shop in Boylston street, reported to the police of her Back Bay station today that her place of business had been robbed.

Special Officer Buchanan and Dodge, making a checkup of the goods missing, amounting to $800 worth of lingerie, discovered fingerprints on two show cases.

WOMAN MAY GO TO GALLOWES

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—The second person in two months to return to the United States facing possible hanging in the old port of New York, a woman was today sentenced to the electric chair.

She is Mrs. Mary Walz, stenographer on the American Trader, for whom a Federal warrant has been issued, accusing her of the death of Louis Fisher, representative who never, charging she was "inspired by the devil and without the fear of God in her eyes."

The warrant said Mrs. Walz killed Fisher "with a deadly poison."

BRAKEMAN KILLED IN TRAIN YARD AT SALEM

Salem, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Andrew Gordon Campbell, 56, of South Portland, Me., a brakeman on a Boston & Maine freight train, was fatally killed today when struck by a Rockport-bound passenger train in the local freight yard while engaged in making up cars for the Worcester freight.

STORMS BLOCK 'OLD GLORY' IN HOP AGAIN

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—A storm area, extending from Newfoundland to 500 miles from the Irish coast, together with adverse winds at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, and a runway too strong for a takeoff, brought official announcement that Old Glory will not take off today on its projected nonstop flight to Rome with Pilot J. D. Hill and Lloyd Berard.

In making the announcement Hill said the weather outlook showed no indications for a west wind on Roosevelt Field, which is needed for the plane's takeoff. Hill and Berard, however, planned to take their monoplane on a short flight this afternoon to test their radio apparatus and make a check on gasoline consumption.

Dr. James H. Kimball, meteorologist of the United States Weather Bureau, reported that if the flier stopped off today they would find favorable steady winds on the Atlantic, but would encounter headwinds, low clouds and rain between New York and New Brunswick.

The weather winds over the ocean would be unfavorable for European visitors who hope to fly west, he said.

Lindbergh at St. Joe

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh arrived today. He can be seen from Wichita, Kan., to Dayton, Ohio.

WORKS SELF TO DEATH CATERING TO FASHION

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Whims of fashion seem to have caused the death of Philip Morris, manufacturer. Increased demand for petticoats caused him to make silk underwear and he converted a long business into a profitable one. His estate has been appraised at $100,000. Says an affidavit filed by his estate, "He literally worked himself to death in building up his business."

HUB PEOPLE DRIVEN OUT IN CASTINE HOTEL FIRE

Castine, Me., Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Fire smoke and water damaged the Castine Inn, a Summer hotel to the extent of $10,000. Guests, including a number of Boston, New York and Philadelphia people, were driven out but saved the most of their belongings. No one was injured. Miss A. T. Thomas gave and managed the house.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Smart Set Assembling at Newport for Tennis Week

"THE WEEK OF NEWPORT'S gay and giddy season is just about to open. Eagerly awaited, much anticipated and now almost here, is Tennis Week which commences on Monday to unwind its bright kaleidoscope through the days. Bellevue avenue, in the precincts sacred to the Casino, will team with life. Swift and swanky motoring, bright as the sun and colored as the rainbow, will be as the sands of the sea along Bel-levue's green bordered length. And every last one of Newport's Big Wigs, the entire "Who's Who" from grandmothers to tots will be in the social whirlpool that eddies over the Casino's brilliant velvet greenward.

TO SAY THAT NEWPORT dresses its Tennis Week resplendently with a world of dash and chic, is but giving the merest impression of the picture. It must be seen in all its glory to be fully appreciated. The feminine does their most ultra top, and the masculine, not to be outdone, see to it that their wardrobe contain the swaggiest things Bond street de-cades, that they may shine sar-torially and thus perfectly com-plete the scene.

MRS. NATANIEL THAYER will have guests stopping in her mid-Victorian villa that looks out onto Bellevue's smooth paved way from the semi-circular of trailing vines and close clipped hedges. Further along the avenue a merry company will assemble as guests of Mrs. F. Lohrop Ames. The Cameron McKee Winstons will have young people flocking in and out of their villa in Nar-ragansett avenue. Miss Eleonora Sears is in fact now in Newport, as house guest of the Alexander Hamilton Riess, whose hospitality she enjoyed during Tennis Week last year. The George Peabody Gardens will be at "Wyndham-ridge" with the Dudley Davises. Thus, in part, will be the Boston representation.

MISS KATHERINE WARREN

New York society girl is busy training village children of Whitefield, N. H., to take part in "The Crusade of the Children," on Sunday, September 4.

Miss Katherine Warren Training Village Children at Whitefield, N. H., to Take Part in Play on Sunday, September 4 others. The North Shore set in-tends to be out in force for the premiere, to give their applause to author and players.

MRS. CHARLES R. GOODMAN is entertaining. Mrs. Charles E. Cotting brings some guests. To be sure, Mrs. Cotting will look on the dramatic and stage technique with a practiced eye, for the petite and charming Mrs. Cotting was that popular actress, an ornament to both speaking stage and silver sheet, the former Miss Constance Binney.

MESDAMES DRYCE J. ALLAN, Russell Sturges Cod-man, Joseph Letter, George Mixer, William D. Bohler, Jr., Quincy A. Shaw, Jr., Reginald Boardman, John A. Lowell Blake, these are a few of the important ones whose names are inscribed on the ren-ovation list for Tuesday evening. When Stillington's blue velvet cur-tains will part, and for the first time on any stage Mrs. Whitman's play will be on.

MRS. B. HUNTINGTON WOL-COTT brings a party down for the premiere, and Mrs. Board-man's party numbers ten. "Fool's Paradise" is Stillington's second dramatic offering. This Summer, Should an enormous success attend the play, as is the Stillington way, then Leslie Buswell and his associates of the Players may well don laurel wreaths. The possibility that Mrs. A. Lynde Cochrane may do a part is good news to the admirers of the former Virian Wassell, who was a professional stage ornament before she came to ornament Boston's smart young matron circle.

TO WHATEVER MISS KATH-ERINE WARREN turns her hand, then are the results pictori-ally perfect as well as dramatically colorful. Spending the summer at Whitefield at Locust Cottage with her mother, Mrs. Frank War-ren, Mrs. Katherine is diligently training the village children in the way they should go dramatically. Her object in training these youngsters is the presentation, Sep-tember 4, at the Mountain View in Whitefield, of "The Crusade of the Children."

ELIZABETH WOODBRIDGE (pen name for Mrs. Charles Morris of New Haven) is the au-thor of the "Chasade," which tells the story of the children of France who, in the 13th century, led by Stephen of Cloyes, planned to re-claim the Holy Land and plant the Cross there. It will be a com-munity play for the village of Whitefield. In keeping with the Crusader atmosphere, no admis-sion is charged, but an offering taken to benefit the village hospital given recently by Dr. Morrill.

Miss Warren directing and suitable Summer guests in the east. It should be no rock production.

BRIDGE

WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD
The World's Greatest Authority
THE PLAY.

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In Monday's game Mr. Whitehead will explain the correct points in the bidding and play of the above hand. It will be his method. These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i.e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

Solent Points of the Bidding

West, in honor of a heart, re-enters from his partner, makes a weak information double of South's bid. North denies double by bidding two hearts, relieving East of the obligation to respond. South, not requiring support in hearts from his partner, holds that suit and obtains the contract.

Solent Points of the Play

Trick 2. South's play of the ten of diamonds warns East that the return of a diamond might result in giving South a club discard. Accordingly East leads a club to give West an opportunity to make his club honors if held, before such a discard can be made.

Tricks 3 & 4. Latching a better lead, West continues with clubs. Trick 5. After three rounds of trumps South is left with three clubs and two diamonds. The suit must give East a trick in it. Moreover if South retains all three trumps to the end, he must trump the eleventh trick and lead a trump to East, which would give the adversaries the game-saving trick. Deceiver therefore plans to dispose of his superfluous trumps by ruffing a diamond.

Tricks 10 to 13. Deceiver ruffs Dummy's good diamond and by putting Dummy in the lead with the Ace of hearts causes a card position over East's two trumps and takes the last two tricks, scoring game on the hand.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

WOREBERG TO NO RATE QUIZ

Tell Woreberg, president of the Quaker Company, was today named by Mayor Nichols chairman of the committee of business men, which the Mayor proposes to have study the fire insurance rate situation in Boston.

Some weeks ago the Mayor learned unofficially that the board of underwriters was planning to raise the fire insurance rates of certain types of business. The Mayor at once contacted State officials and prepared a sweeping investigation of the fire insurance situation in Boston.

Appointment of a committee of business men was made to study the situation. Other members of the committee will be appointed next week.

AMOSKEAG MILLS CLOSE ON VACATION; 10,000 OUT

—More than 10,000 employees of the Amoskeag Mfg. Co. are affected by the order which closes the plant today for the annual summer vacation.

Only the rayon department, which works day and night, and parts of the mechanical division are excepted from the order. The mills will re-open Sept. 4.

LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

The budding operator's next job was at Sarnia, Canada. One night he was ordered to hold a freight train through the night. He did it, and the freight train could get the signal set. The freight train was at the station. He reported this to the dispatcher, who replied, "Well, it's a good thing you did it."

While Edison was only slightly to blame he tried his best to make amends. The frightened train rushed into the station. He was hoping to catch up with it at the junction beyond. He failed to reach his footing, missed the train, and was knocked senseless.

Youth Poses as Lowell's Son

ELEO SALUTES CASEY

It would be news to President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard to know that he has a son, and something of a shock to the great educator to realize that this "son" has fled Boston, leaving a wake of unpaid bills for all kinds of luxuries.

Yet this is the charge brought against "John Lowell, son of President of Harvard" by hotel and automobile firms.

The dapper young man, who posed as his father's son, admitted and he took every possible advantage of the confusion extended him.

So bold was he in his operations that he duped the auto rent to Governor Fuller at the Ritz-Carlton the night that the Governor stayed there for his deliberation of the State's case.

The suite for one night cost the clever young man $100.00. He would have cost him that if he had tarried to see the bill and then in the morning he complained that the beds were hard. He demanded that he be given another suite. Hotel officials hastened to his bidding, but he failed to return to occupy the new rooms.

And he hasn't been heard from since. Police close to establish his identity have failed.

IN COURT AFTER 2 ARE HURT IN CRASH

William O. Martin of Lake Park, Brighton, was arraigned in Brookline court today, charged with drunkenness, as a result of an automobile accident in which two persons were injured.

Miss Margaret Valley of Winthrop Avenue, Watertown, and Stephen Dempsey, New Parker House, were riding in Martin's machine when it skidded into a tree at Carlton and Colchester streets, Brookline, were taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

The young woman had abrasions and lacerations of the head and hands, and Dempsey laceration of the forehead. Martin's case was continued.

Dried Flies at Forty Cents a Pound Make Zoo Expensive

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Imported dried flies at 40 cents a pound and are eggs and ground beetles at 60 are holding men costs at the Bronx Zoological Park far beyond "than and" press at some of the downtown "one-star" restaurants.

Fastidious appetites of one of New York's best fed classes daily require strange and uncommon foodstuffs from almost every corner of the world, says Mr. W. Reid Blair, director of the Bronx Zoological Garden.

The city spends more than $41,000 annually to feed hundreds of animals and birds, and 2,500 specimens of birds.

Then fate took a hand. Fortunately for all concerned the two engineers were on the alert and each saw the other's headlights approaching on the single track. Realizing the terrible danger, they brought their trains to a stop just in time to avert what would have been a disastrous head-on collision.

In spite of his innocence, Edison was summoned to the general manager's office at Toronto for an explanation. The official was interrupted by visitors. Edison, grasping the opportunity, slipped out unnoticed, hurried to the Grand Trunk depot, whence a friendly conductor carried him back to Sarnia.

Story of a Girl Who Did Just What She Chose and Then Took Flight

Emily Duane, an "ultra modern," is about to marry Rodney Bayre, conservative, and son of an old New England family. Emily, parentless, is extremely wealthy, charming, high-spirited and impulsive.

Novelly allures her and Hindu mysticism is her latest fad. In her enthusiasm she places a clause in her will bequeathing a large sum to Swami Lal Singh, her teacher.

Two days before the wedding Emily decides to have a rehearsal of the ceremony. Burton Lamb, best-man-to-be; Betty Bailey and Neil Harding, bridesmaids; Polly Pennington, matron of honor, and her husband, Jim; Pete Gibby, Betty Bailey's beau; Emily, Rodney and Emily's Aunt Judy are talking things over, and among the subjects under discussion are the Reverend Mr. Garner, who is to officiate; "Spinks," an undertaker, whom Emily has designated as "wedding director," and Emily's bequest to the Hindu.

Lamb starts to berate Emily for making the bequest. She explains that the will is automatically cancelled when she becomes Rodney's wife.

The Swami overhears, and he is incensed, says nothing. Emily then gets a phone message that Mrs. Kitty Laurence, a dear friend, has become a mother, and she impulsively drops everything to go to the hospital and kiss the new-born "for luck." She instructs Rodney to evade telling the others where she is.

Meanwhile Abel Collins, an old family friend of the Duane's, has joined the party.

"Spinks" is ready to start rehearsal and everyone is looking for Emily. Rodney follows instructions, tries to evade the issue, but finally tells that Emily has gone to the hospital.

It develops that Polly Pennington has left with Emily, though neither had told anyone of their plans. The wedding rehearsal continues without the bride or matron of honor, and without the groom, too, for Bayre refuses to budge until Emily returns.

Jim Pennington waits for his wife, but gets nervous after a while and phones the hospital.

Neither Emily or Polly has been there. Everett Craven, Emily's lawyer, calls, and he and Pete Gibby decide that the Swami may have something to do with Emily's disappearance. Gibby goes to the Stevensons, who introduced the Hindu to society, but Stevenson denies knowing anything about Lal Singh's past life, or his character.

CHAPTER XI

POSTE GIBBY walked slowly back to Emily's, thinking about it. On the face of things, it was all Stevenson. He knew nothing of the "Peepers."

Tunney Has Poise Modern Managers Win Many Fights
By Nick Flatley

SEE MY MANAGER, IS MODERN BOXERS' REPLY

GENE TUNNEY has the poise that a real champion needs. No matter what happens, he doesn't get flustered. When a madman stepped out to challenge him, Gene calmly advised the latest contender to see his manager, and proceeded on his way.

Interviewing the favorite is part of the manager's job. The modern boxer doesn't bother with that any more. In the old days, the battlers used to meet the cuckoos half way, buy a few drinks, and settle everything over the bar, including the check. Now the warriors cannot be bothered. They wouldn't indulge in a street fight on a bet, unless it was big enough. And even then the manager would have to get the money in advance. Fighters have changed, and they have to get publicity, even if supposed lunatics have to be released from asylums to furnish it.

Young Mister Tunney expressed the philosophy of the modern boxer very concisely when he pulled that "See my manager" stuff. It would appear that his literary pursuits are bearing fruit. No genius could have evolved a quicker or more final ending for a delicate situation.

See my manager, is the boxer's complete vocabulary nowadays. He pulls it when asked if he thinks he can win. He springs it when promoters want him to fight. He uses it when traffic cops hold him up. It's a great out.

There isn't the least doubt but that Jack Dempsey would resort to the phrase if somebody should ask him, cold turkey, about that Sharkey foul. There isn't much doubt, either, that Leo Flynn could give a new answer, if he happened to be inclined.

Time was when the managers merely bought railroad tickets and paid off the seconds. Now they arrange the fights and as often as not settle the decisions before the boys go into the ring. There's more truth than poetry nowadays to the managerial expression: "Lick him or we'll lick him." He hasn't got a chance. He can't hurt us, and he knows it.

It's a great game, this fight racket, for the boys who don't care what they do with their money. One Argonne show packs more real action than could be discovered in three out of the last four million dollar battles.

Persons don't understand English and it is a cliché also that he doesn't understand New York dollars.

The only way to get a better idea of the situation is to see the fight.

Canning of the Late 'You Said It, Marceline!'

Fruits in Order

By MARTHA LEE
It is a grand and glorious feeling to look at those fat little shelves in the preserve closet! Marceline's Father will have to build some additions before we finish all we want to do for the winter.

Old High Cost of Living will take first one look at our well stocked pantry this Winter and quietly steal away. Today we are going to finish the vegetables and start on some of the late fruits.

I do want to give you just one more recipe for putting up cornish time with tomatoes.

Corn and Tomatoes—Proceed as with the recipe for a tomato in a previous lesson. If you have clipped these, drop me a line and I'll gladly send you the entire collection of canning charts. But shorten the period of boiling to two hours in the water bath or forty minutes in the pressure cooker at 10 lbs. of pressure. The acid of the tomatoes will keep the corn from spoiling.

While carrots keep fairly well in cellar storage they grow old and flavorless. It is better to can them than leave them young and have them at their best. Soak the carrots with a brush and bleach in boiling water for ten minutes. Cook in the pressure cooker at 10 lbs. for a minute, remove and pack into clean hot jars.

Add a level teaspoon of salt to each quart for an extra touch to the water. Pack well and store in the water bath for two hours or in the pressure cooker at 10 lbs. for 10 min. Very much extra produce in this appearing vegetable.

Pumpkins keep exceptionally well with ordinary care or even, some housewives like to can a supply as they gradually shorten the labor of pie making. The pumpkins should be cut in a well boiled water bath for ten minutes. Then in the water bath, or 40 minutes in the pressure cooker at 10 lbs.

The peak of the canning season begins with the ripening of the late fruits from August until frost in the Northern and Western States and on the Pacific Coast. This useful group of late fruits includes peaches, pears, plums, apples and pimientos. They are all delicious and economical and the large fruits can be canned in very little syrup as desired. The labor of canning is less

Some girls are very NOISY in their LOVE, quiet, PAIN and pleasure. It seems they make a P.E.S.S over everything. And then call themselves EMOTIONAL. Highly strung WOMEN who are finely SENSITIVE. When to every EMOTION, as a harp will quiver long after the hand of the PLAYER has left the STRINGS. This is different!

The FIRST loud and hysterical, are like a HARPION. Very nice, if that KIND OF MUSIC appeals to them. But a little hard to LIVE with.

THE WOMAN like the HARP is not easy Company either. She is usually a little TOUCHY. Men who want PEACE should not MARRY.

Still, a PIANO can be all things to one man.

Copyright, 1927, Francis & Taylor, Inc.

than when canning in light syrup. Pears undoubtedly have more flavor when canned by the hot process, though to save labor they may be canned by the recipe for peaches. Green plums, too, should be canned in halves. As soon as the skin has been removed from the pears, they should be placed in cold salted water to keep them white until you are ready to use them.

The late hard pears are better when sliced in rather large slices. They should be cooked very slowly in syrup until they look almost transparent, then packed quickly in hot jars filled to overflowing, and sealed.

Yours for more and better canning.

MARTHA LEE.

Pasteurization of Milk Prevents Sickness

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

If you live in a well-regulated American city you are probably denied with regularity inspection and control of your milk. If you are not thus protected you live in a doubtful area. In the country and have you the average educated farmer will sell you your cattle periodically inspected by a competent veterinarian. Pasteurization of milk, as practiced in every civilized modern American city, saves thousands of lives every year, and will continue to be beneficial to you in the future. It is a modern step in the direction of better health and a nation may play a large part in the return.

First, only all calves are free from tuberculosis when they are born. They are not immunized as they are from the mother at once. They then receive an injection of bacillus of an attenuated strain which has been artificially cultivated for a long time and has become not only harmless but capable of arousing the animal's immunity to harmful strains. A week after they receive a second injection, each given in turn among the other animals, usually in the form of a small amount of milk mixed with a small amount of the bacillus. This is done three or four times in the first year, according to the tuberculosis test.

The problem of bovine tuberculosis is a problem of immunizing all calves against the amount of infection they are liable to encounter in ordinary life. The source is responsible and true in the way to solve it, a way both safe and scientific.

Cream your Coffee—hot or iced—this way

Coffee can't be truly delicious unless it's richly creamed. Now, don't begin to talk about expensive bottled cream does not a lot—but there's another way—a mighty economical way—to get creamy richness into your steaming morning cup, or into your tall, frothy glass of iced coffee at dinner time.

Coffee hot or coffee cold—cream it and sugar it with Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk! It isn't just "hot milk" or "cold milk"—it's a delicious blend of pure, fresh, full-cream country milk and fine sugar. Creamily rich! More than twice as rich as any other milk, because most of the water has been taken out. Bottled milk, you know, is 87% water.

Standard Milk will give you true cream and sugar richness at one-half the cost of separate cream and sugar! Use it!

This way for Hot Coffee:
Put one or two teaspoons of Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk into the empty coffee cup. Then pour in the hot coffee. Note the rich, heavy body—the perfect golden color—the mellow flavor! Your coffee will be creamed and sugared to perfection!

And this way for Iced Coffee:
Make the coffee by your favorite method, using six heaping tablespoons of coffee to two parts of water. Strain the coffee and add three-fourths cup of Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk. Chill and serve.

Use this extra goodness into your cooking, too! Use Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk in any recipe that calls for both milk and sugar. Get it from your grocer today! Remember—it stays fresh for days after the can is opened, even without ice!

Besides this wedding cake, pieces of wedding cake (fruit cake) are packed by the caterer in small white boxes with the initials of the bride and groom embossed on the box. These boxes are tied with very narrow white ribbon. They are placed in a large container of some kind—silver or silver bowl, or on a flat platter or silver tray—which is put

- 4-Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.

No intelligent person can say that this is starting an "armament race." Of these modern 10,000-ton cruisers we now have two under construction and six under contract. If this next session we authorize and start ten more, we shall have eighteen of them building, a total of 180,000 tons. In addition, we have built since the war ten 7,500-ton cruisers, a total of 75,000 tons. So that if we start the ten new ones that President Coolidge suggests, we shall have a grand total of 235,000 tons of building. This compares with 380,000 tons of big modern cruisers for Great Britain.

President Coolidge's words at Rapid City give the text for a building program that will not give us anything like parity with Great Britain, but will be a reasonable step in the right direction.

As evidence of that interest, and as a herald of the happy results which may come from it, the announcement of the American Export Lines is at once grateful and encouraging. And if it proves to be the precursor of other and similar announcements, so much the better.
